

MAASAI - ALL IN A DAY'S WORK

It is not often you get to spend a few days with the Maasai and see how they go about their daily lives. It was a very special experience being able to share their time with them. The people were extremely gracious and immensely patient as I wandered around the village continuously pointing my camera. With the cosy scenes, the bright colours and the beautiful people, I felt compelled to lift my camera many times. Choosing the photographs to share with you has been equally difficult. I hope you enjoy a short trip into the daily lives of these very special people.
